Course Description: A study of anatomy and physiology with emphasis on human pathophysiology, including etiology, prognosis, medical treatment, signs and symptoms of common diseases of all body systems.

Semester Hours Credit: 3

Lecture Lab Hours: 2 / 4

Prerequisite: none

Recommended: HITT1305 Medical Terminology

Text: Neighbors, Marianna and Tannehill-Jones, Ruth Human Diseases: 4th edition, Cengage Learning; ISBN: 978-1-2850-6592-2

End of Course Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course the student will:

1. Distinguish between normal and abnormal physiologic functions of all body systems
2. Identify etiology, signs, and symptoms, and diagnostic testing of typical diseases of all body systems
3. Correlate prognosis, medical treatment, and treatment procedures with patient morbidity and mortality.

Evaluation Methods:

1. Exams
2. Classroom activities
3. Online assignments
4. Laboratory Exercises

Student Learning Outcomes: Lecture

The student will demonstrate the ability to use inquiry, and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information in gathering information concerning human disease in terms of its etiology, pathophysiology, epidemiology, diagnostic tests and present this data in a report that also draws conclusions about the prognosis of the course of treatment for that disease.

Assessment:

The assessment will be done by the preparation of a written report that discusses a disease in terms of its etiology, pathophysiology, epidemiology, diagnostic tests and contains conclusions about the prognosis for treatment for that disease.

Target:

At least 90% will present a report that is evaluated at 75% or greater in terms of completeness of information and validity of conclusions in the paper.

Student Learning Outcomes: Lab Work

The student will demonstrate knowledge of the basic lab tests and diagnostic procedures used in the diagnosis of human disease to support their ability to think critically in the understanding of diseases and their manifestations in humans.

Assessment:

The assessment will be done by a test over the meaning and use of basic diagnostic and related procedures.

Target:

At least 90% will score present at 75% or greater on test over the meaning and use of diagnostic and related procedures.
